The mentoring process:

Our confidential process will help you frame and execute a programme that connects directly to your organisation's business goals – and to help you set aside any reservations you've had about marketing such as being overwhelmed by options or fear you'll make expensive mistakes.

Our specialty designed tools facilitate this process by helping you develop each of these areas in a logical and straightforward way, giving you at once a sense of the big picture and command of the various details required to succeed with your marketing.

In each one-hour session – via phone or skype – we'll walk through each tool in a systematic way and ask the tough questions necessary to succeed. Between calls you will have homework (researching, planning, prioritising, etc.) that we can evaluate and discuss in each subsequent session.

By the end of your mentoring programme you'll have a well-framed marketing programme in place -- as well as peace of mind from knowing you've thought it all through in a logical, precise fashion.
